

PRESS RELEASE

We are delighted to announce the program for the 12th International Landscape Biennial of Barcelona, which will delve into the theme of "The Poetics of Remediation."

- This year, 32 experts, including renowned professionals in the field, jury members, academics, and researchers, will be participating with their presentations.
- Prominent speakers include the landscape architect and experimental vegetation activist Cassian Schmidt, the Thai landscape architect Koch Voraakkhom, theorists Gareth Doherty (Harvard University) and Tim Watermann (UCL), landscape architect Catherine Mosbach, and the author of "Water Lore" in Australia, Gini Lee, among others.
- The Biennial returns as an in-person event, but with free and open streaming events for registered attendees.

Barcelona will host the 12th International Landscape Biennial from November 24 to 28, 2023, marking the beginning of a week dedicated to landscape intervention from both educational and professional perspectives. The planned activities span over three days of free preliminary events (November 24, 25, and 26), followed by a two-day symposium at the Palau de la Música (November 27 and 28).
